PROJECT NARRATIVE

a. Need

For the last seven years, SADVC has received Davis CDBG funding, making it possible to bring a Domestic Violence Response Team (DVRT) advocate in to work with the Davis Police Department (DPD). The DVRT reviews domestic violence incident and crime reports and follows up with the victims, provides emergency call-out assistance as needed, and educates and informs the police department about domestic violence victim advocacy. The DVRT's response to victim needs compliments evidence collection by Davis PD, ensuring offender accountability, protecting victims, easing trauma, and helping those whose lives are affected by domestic violence gain access to appropriate services and information.

Officers express frustration when responding to domestic violence call outs. They are often able to arrest the batterer for violent behavior, but upon release from jail, the batterer apology and cycle repeats. The SADVC Advocate assigned to Davis PD will immediately contact the victim, providing life-saving information and support. They will be informed about the safe house; a comprehensive program. During the course of stay, each victim is assigned an advocate to assist in obtaining clothing, food, financial aid, and health care. Every individual has unique circumstances and varying levels of need. Services are provided in a confidential setting, free of judgment. Since language can be an obstacle for many victims of violence, services as well as printed material are provided in English, Spanish and Russian. Therapists trained to work with victims of violence provide individual counseling sessions to women and children housed at the facility. Assistance with restraining orders, custody issues as well as education on the court process, is provided to residents. Our comprehensive program empowers survivors so they may design and develop a life style for themselves and their children free of violence.

Domestic violence is not only dangerous for the victims, but for Davis Police Officers as well. According to a 2005 FBI Report on Law Enforcement, 75% of all 9-1-1- calls are domestic violence calls. The same report also states that domestic violence calls are so inherently dangerous, that an officer is more than twice as likely to be injured or killed during a domestic violence call than any other type of pursuit. In 2008, the Yolo County Sheriff's Department lost one of its own deputies on Father's Day, who was killed allegedly while in pursuit of a domestic violence call. Just 7 months later, in early 2009, Woodland PD officers shot and killed a man who was allegedly stalking his ex-wife when officers found him hiding in her apartment. The man was armed and was killed in the exchange of gunfire.

Family violence is cyclical and children who live in violent homes adopt violent behaviors. Officers know that when a victim doesn't have a supportive resource system (family, friends, SADVC advocate) to help them, they risk not only their own life, but the lives of children. Exposure to domestic violence is defined as a form of child abuse, yet every year thousands of Yolo County children suffer in a violent environment. The Davis PD and SADVC Domestic Violence Response Team is a proactive approach so that outreach and response to all domestic disturbance calls ensures that victims are aware of potential options for safety and financial independence.

The City of Davis CDBG funds allow those residents of Davis that are affected by violence in the home, to break the cycle and provide safety not only for their family, but also for their neighborhood and community. When violence occurs it is everyone's problem.

b. Benefit

The DVRT works only with victims of domestic violence. According to HUD's national objectives (RFP, pg. 79), battered spouses presumably meet the criteria for low or moderate-income persons. Therefore, the CDBG funds awarded to this program will benefit only those they are ideally intended for.

The placement of an SADVC DVRT Advocate within the Davis PD has been instrumental in providing alternatives for those families who fear the possibility of homelessness if they were to leave their batterer. This program provides resources necessary for victims to leave successfully, safely and to know that there is shelter, legal and therapy services that are 100% free. Many survivors assisted by the Davis CDBG funded position, who could not stay in their home due to it being unsafe, were provided emergency shelter at the safe house. Over 98% of Davis residents assisted by the DVRT in the 2007-2008 Davis CDBG funding cycle were considered very-low or extremely low income. Those families that had needs beyond our scope of service were referred out to agencies that could assist them.

Prior to the implementation of this partnership and program, victims of domestic violence in the City of Davis had to search on their own for resources. Now, having an advocate working closely with the Davis Police Department ensures that victims receive follow-up phone calls, get information about free services, support, counseling, and emergency shelter if necessary. Together with Davis PD officers, we can assist them in safely breaking the repetitive cycle of family violence, giving parents and children a chance for a more healthy and peaceful life.

c. Other Resources and Collaboration

SADVC provides services free of charge due to additional funding sources secured by the Center. These include the State Department of Health Services; Yolo County Department of Alcohol, Drug and Mental Health Services; State Office of Emergency Services; private donations; foundation charitable corporation donations; and volunteer services. It is this combination of financial resources, together with the Davis CDBG funding, that enables us to reach as many people as cost effectively as we do.

Volunteers also play a vital role in supporting SADVC. Volunteers perform duties ranging from answering the 24/7 Bi-Lingual Crisis Line; assisting with walk-in crisis clients or helping with administrative duties at the Center.

SADVC works closely with other social service, law enforcement, and mental health agencies. SADVC maintains operational agreements with over 30 agencies throughout Yolo County. Agency staff members participate in various local and statewide coalitions such as the Family Violence Prevention Council, the Domestic Violence Legal Advocacy Committee, California Partnership to End Domestic Violence and the Davis Police Department Community Advisors. The Davis DVRT program has been developed in collaboration with the Davis Police Department, the West Sacramento Police Department, Woodland Police Department and Yolo County Sheriff's Department. The DVRT program is one of only a few victim advocacy programs of this type in California.

d. Organizational Capacity

The Sexual Assault and Domestic Violence Center is one of Yolo County's well-established non-profit organizations, serving this community for 32 years. The Center offers a number of services specific to the issues of domestic violence and sexual assault. Each service is designed to further the Center's mission and help each individual progress beyond her/his traumatic experience. The core programs of the center are:

24-hour Crisis Line - Crisis intervention phone services to victims of sexual assault and domestic violence.

Wallace & Vannucci Emergency Shelter - Emergency shelter and programs for battered women and their children.

CARE (Concerned Advocates Responding to Emergencies) -Hospital and court accompaniment for victims of sexual assault.

DVRT (Domestic Violence Response Team) - Advocacy on behalf of victims of domestic violence through a partnership with law enforcement.

Counseling Programs - Support for adults and children affected by domestic violence and/or sexual assault or abuse.

Alternatives to Violence Program -52-week anger management program designed specifically for batterers.

Legal Advocacy Program - Legal advocacy for battered women in need of obtaining a domestic violence restraining order.

Community Education and Outreach Programs - Presentations on domestic violence, sexual assault, dating violence and child abuse.

The Sexual Assault and Domestic Violence Center fills a unique niche in the continuum of public services available to the residents of Yolo County. If the Center did not exist, battered women with their children fleeing from their partners would have to travel to Sacramento, Solano County, or the Bay Area to find safe shelter, counseling, legal assistance, and other support services.

As the sole provider of domestic violence services in Yolo County, the Center employs 25 staff members and more than 30 volunteers who ensure that all who seek help at the Center are assisted in a professional, safe, and caring manner. The volunteer Board of Directors meets monthly and provides fiscal oversight and policy direction to the Executive Director.

SCOPE OF SERVICES

a. Project Description (Activity Summary: Describe the activities of the proposed budget)

This project will fund a part-time DVRT advocate who works in partnership with the Davis Police Department to provide advocacy to victims of family violence in the Davis community.

The DVRT makes contact and offers advocacy to victims of domestic violence. The provision of advocacy services includes, but is not limited to: crisis intervention counseling, emergency shelter, resource and referral, restraining order assistance and court accompaniment. She also promotes awareness of domestic violence and sexual assault, and stalking related crimes through community outreach efforts.

Domestic violence crime reports will be provided by Davis PD to the SADVC DVRT within 2-5 days of the call. The report will be reviewed and the victim contacted by the DVRT. Routinely each victim is provided with a packet of educational and resource materials with sensitivity to their literacy and language needs. The DVRT works with those clients willing to accept services and addresses their immediate safety needs, as well as establishes trust and rapport. The victim may decline services altogether or use them for months, depending on their needs.

Assistance in the form of developing a safety plan, referrals to potential services, crisis intervention and peer counseling will be provided by the DVRT. Referrals may include food, clothing, medical service, counseling, legal advocacy, CPS, APS, Victim/Witness, or other services as needed. Accompaniment on police emergency domestic violence call-outs will also be provided as necessary.

The DVRT will validate the victims' perspective, educate them about the cycle of abuse, create a dialog that will enable the victim to set goals and provide emergency assistance if necessary. By decreasing the victims feeling of isolation, the DVRT can gently guide the victim toward self-autonomy. If the victim expresses an interest in shelter, the DVRT can initiate the SADVC shelter admission process. If the victim wishes legal assistance, the advocate can contact SADVC's legal advocacy program for what she cannot do herself. On Monday's the domestic violence restraining order clinic is held at the Davis Police Department, facilitated by the DVRT. The victim is provided with a copy of their crime report to use as an attachment on the restraining order application. Court preparation and accompaniment are provided. The DVRT will follow every case as long as possible, providing advocacy and support, as long as they remain in the justice system or within SADVC's system of services, as long as the family remains at-risk and in the city. All services are provided in both English and Spanish; victims with physical disabilities are accommodated in accordance with their needs; and persons with literacy or developmental delays are provided individual services to work at their own pace.

The DVRT has the ability to bring law enforcements attention to a victim's non-traditional needs and provides a bridge for victims to become empowered and to be their own advocate with the Davis Police Department and the court system. The greatest strength the advocate gives the Davis Police Department is the ability to see each victim as unique with their own merits; to brainstorm unique solutions to the "present" crisis and to work with each victim based on their individual needs instead of becoming frustrated with oft times adverse outcomes. The Davis Police Department and the DVRT Advocate coordinate services on behalf of the victim and her children that address safety first and improvements to the quality of their lives second.

The cost per beneficiary of DVRT services in Davis is $ 112 per family served. An estimated 102 Davis residents will be served in the year ahead, 96% of who will have low incomes. Many victims of domestic violence fear the possibility of homelessness if they were to leave their batterer. This program seeks to provide those resources necessary for victims to leave successfully and not to experience that reality. Those that are made homeless due to domestic violence and are eligible are provided emergency shelter at the Wallace & Vannucci Shelter. In addition, the shelter program includes assistance and support in acquiring more permanent housing.

The DVRT will promote the awareness of domestic violence through its community outreach efforts. Education and information will be available for officers in the department and for the community at large through presentations and trainings about domestic violence and DVRT services.

b. Target Group

The Domestic Violence Response Team will serve 102 families in Davis in the coming year, an average of 8-10 per month.

At least 96% of all clients served through the DVRT program will be very low-income persons based on CDBG guidelines.

c. Outreach

Outreach efforts for the Davis DVRT will include:

- Representation on the Family Violence Prevention Council
- Representation on the Yolo County Domestic Violence Legal Advocacy Committee
- DVRT trainings for law enforcement agencies
- DVRT presentations to Yolo County advocacy agencies that provide services to Davis residents
- Presence at fairs and events held in the community of Davis

PERFORMANCE MEASUREMENTS

ACTIVITY (What the program does to fulfill its mission)	INDICATOR (The direct products of program activities) Service #s	OUTCOME (Benefits that result from the program)
Review police reports and contact victims for follow-up	a. 8 – 11 Crimes Reports, per month, will be reviewed and followed up on to make contact with the party listed as the “victim”. b. 8 – 9 of those contacted will be provided ongoing direct services after the initial contact.	Persons victimized by domestic violence will receive immediate assistance to increase their and their children’s safety. The DVRT is knowledgeable of the criminal justice system and will provide support during court appearances. Victims will receive immediate assistance in entering SADVC’s emergency shelter program if they are fleeing the abuser. Improve quality of life for program participants.
Provide assistance to officers on emergency domestic violence call-outs	1 – 5 patrol officers will call the advocate to provide immediate assistance to a victim during the reporting process during the grant year. An advocate will respond and provide assistance either in person or over the phone.	Officers will learn first hand the importance of collaborating with a domestic violence advocate in responding to a victim in crisis and at immediate risk of further abuse. The victim will receive support and options immediately and begin the process of establishing a trusting relationship with the advocate.
Increase awareness in the Davis community and provide information to law enforcement officers through domestic violence trainings and presentations	Advocate to provide 3 presentations to community organizations and law enforcement officers at briefing during the grant year.	The community of Davis will be more knowledgeable in detection and response to domestic violence. Victim safety will increase as more people become aware of SADVC and options for victims of domestic violence.
