

① Thanks for the Great Greenbelt - I'm on it most days - love the underpasses

② I worry that the park bench (Del Oro Plaza outside sac) collects leaves with lots of space there - see been by the fountain in around bench and on bench respectively. Also get your bottles put in my trash can (recycled, tho) - had my house had a broken - mostly likely a kid - here more to be seen. I would feel safer if there were no benches next to my house. Also finally - the shade in the island is less put in my trash can (correctly recycled). There was a juvenile-type break in my house - best for the house. There was also an area of 3 kids that banded down next to my house - a phone and a house leave with site of juvenile work. I would feel much safer if that bench was not next to my house. How about putting some equipment on street corners? I'm not sure about that.

BIKE ROUTE GUIDE

Green Routes are usually streets with marked bike lanes. Dotted green routes are those with-out bike lanes that provide direct connections to streets with bike lanes, bike paths or popular destinations.

Orange Routes are bike paths on which motor traffic is limited. Some are good connections between major streets and destinations and some are more suitable for recreational riding.

Purple Routes are intercity routes for travel to and from Davis. Note that most intercity routes are on rural roads with high-speed traffic and variable shoulder widths
