KELSEY FORTUNE

Occupation: Economics Doctoral Candidate

In these uncertain times, Davis needs a clear and ambitious plan for the future. We need thoughtful development to address our severe housing shortage, including a housing-first approach to homelessness. We need antiracist public safety that prioritizes vulnerable individuals. We need improved infrastructure built for people, not only private vehicles. We need proactive climate policy that sets an example for the region. Most of all, we need a transparent City Council that is listening to the entire community.

Seven years ago, I fell in love with a small, diverse, bike friendly town while studying energy, transportation, and environmental policy. Now, I want to use this knowledge and my enthusiasm and empathy to represent my neighbors. Witnessing voices ignored by people in power has led me to take an active role in my community. Service to others is my passion, and I am listening to and learning from you every day.

I am eager to foster collective wisdom through humility and understanding and lead Davis to an inclusive, prosperous, and sustainable future. Let's work together to make our home the best it can be. To learn more about my vision for Davis, visit fortunefordavis.com.
